Performance Notes

You Raise Me Up is a popular song in the inspirational mold, with music by Rolf Løvland and lyrics by Brendan Graham. The song has been recorded more than 125 times around the world, in several different languages.

You Raise Me Up, which has a melody similar to the traditional Irish folk song Danny Boy, was originally written as an instrumental piece. Løvland approached Irish novelist and songwriter Graham to write lyrics to his melody after reading Graham's epic first novel, The Whitest Flower. You Raise Me Up was originally released on the 2001 Secret Garden album Once in a Red Moon, with vocals by Irish singer Brian Kennedy, and sold well in Ireland and Norway. The song was used for commemorations of the September 11, 2001 terrorist attack on the United States even though it had not been released in America at that time.

Later in 2003, after hearing Brian Kennedy's recording, American Josh Groban recorded the song, which proved very popular in the U.S.A. His version made it to the top of the Billboard Adult Contemporary Charts and remained there for six weeks. Groban also performed it at Superbowl 2004, in a special NASA tribute to the crew of the space shuttle Columbia disaster. His recording was nominated for a 2005 Grammy award.

Composer and arranger Joe Liles was commissioned to do an arrangement of You Raise Me Up for the Houston Horizons chorus of Sweet Adelines International. This is the male version of that arrangement, which includes the option to sing a second verse that the first arrangement did not contain.

Also, since the interlude leading into the tag, measures 40-42, could be challenging for some singers, an option is offered that will allow you to avoid that section and go right into the tag without changing key. Simply skip from measure 38 to the Optional Tag.

Note to performers who choose to sing the second verse: When you reach measure 24, sing the word be but start using the notation in measure 8.

For quartets that choose to use the optional second verse, we recommend that the harmony parts hum or use a neutral vowel, such as oo or oh (after you sing be). Since the bass sings the melody in measures 8-10, your quartet will need to decide whether to split the solo chores between two voices or not. If some notes in 8-10 are too low for the soloist, a bit of creative stylizing or revoicing may be in order.

Choruses can be more flexible. All singers except the soloist sing their normal voice part on a hum or neutral vowel, even when this involves doubling the melody. The solo can be sung by one voice or divided among multiple singers. If you have a fine tenor soloist in your group, he could sing the entire melody, or just part of it, an octave higher than written.

As a final note: Questions concerning the contest suitability of this or any other song/arrangement should be directed to the contest and judging community and measured against current contest rules. Ask before you sing.
